Road Relocation Will Get Citizens' Study

Nielsen Will Appoint Bear Creek Group Soon

By LARRY GLAZIER

A citizens' committee will be appointed later this month to make an impartial study of the proposed relocation of Bear Creek Road, it was announced yesterday.

Chairman Mel Nielsen of the County Board of Supervisors said he will name the committee during the week of August 22, after he returns from the convention of the National Association of County Officials.

Nielsen expressed a hope that the citizens' group then could meet with county and East Bay Municipal Utility District officials by mid-September. In that way, he said, a study could be completed before the matter went before the supervisors for action.

THE COUNTY Planning Commission approved the relocation of Bear Creek Road along the south edge of EBMUD's proposed Briones Valley Reservoir last month after several homeowners' groups staged protests during two public hearings.

Basis of the controversy is the utility district's obligation to the county to replace Bear Creek Road. The road will be inundated by the construction of the new reservoir.

The road at the southern edge of the reservoir has been recommended by county engineers and D. Jackson Faustman, a Sacramento traffic engineer. These proponents of the road state that an access road of this type will be required if the proposed Briones County Park is developed.

MOST OF the opponents of the road relocation have challenged the necessity and economy of the new road and the park if EBMUD agrees in the near future to develop recreational facilities at the Lafayette and Briones Valley reservoirs.

The recreation proposal is currently under study by a citizens' executive committee appointed by EBMUD officials Monday. Several persons still are to be named before the committee's roster of 37 is complete.

Opening of the reservoirs, previously opposed by EBMUD, to fishing, boating and picnicking activities was recommended last month by two preliminary subcommittees of the district.

NIELSEN SAID citizen members of the proposed study committee will include representatives of the Sleepy Hollow and Happy Valley improvement associations, the Orinda Association, the Lafayette Improvement Association and Alhambra Valley.

Other citizen members on the group, the supervisor reported, will be the chairmen of the park and recreation and roads committees of the Contra Costa County Development and Taxpayers' associations.

When the committee is appointed, he stated, it will meet with representatives of the County Park Commission, public works department, planning staff, planning commission, the district attorney's office and the utility district.

THE BOARD chairman explained he hopes the impartial study will develop some answers to the questions of why the road is needed and how it will help or hinder the future development of the area north of Orinda and Lafayette.

Specifically, Nielsen said, he will seek citizens' answers to when EBMUD should be required to replace the inundated Bear Creek Road and what effect the district's recreational policy will have on the proposed Briones Park.

County funds have already been expended toward the acquisition of the proposed park lands.

Supervisors Ask Administrator To Study Court Plan

The county board of supervisors asked the county administrator Tuesday to make a complete study of the proposed reorganization of the county's municipal and justice courts based on last week's state judicial council report.

On a motion by Third District Supervisor Thomas J. Coll of Concord, the board referred the judicial council's recommendations to County Administrator J. P. McBrien, and asked him to make a two or three week study.

SUPERVISORS asked McBrien to be prepared to make a "strong recommendation for action" after he has evaluated the council's report.

The judicial council recommended that the county's 13 justice courts and four municipal courts, the latter with six judges, be consolidated into three municipal courts with six judges and three justice courts.

For the central county, the council, headed by California Chief Justice Phil Gibson, recommended the consolidation of the Walnut Creek and Concord municipal courts into one court in Pleasant Hill.

THE PROPOSED two-judge municipal court would serve all of the area now being served by the two separate courts. This includes Orinda, Moraga, Lafayette, Walnut Creek, Pleasant Hill and Concord.

According to the state council, the consolidation would mean an initial saving of $165,000 to the taxpayers of the county, with additional savings in future years. Other advantages reportedly include greater efficiency of the courts.

Supervisor Coll has been an advocate of some form of action to stop the creation of new municipal courts in the county as each of the residential areas grows in population.

New municipal courts have recently been created in Concord, Walnut Creek and San Pablo by superior court order as those judicial districts reached 40,000 population.

Coll noted that similar courts can soon be created, over the supervisors' opposition, in El Cerrito-Kensington and Pittsburg.

All Local Schools Hit by Collier Bill

Money Losses are Listed; Some Taxes Up, Some Down

All school districts in the central county, high school and elementary level, will feel the effects of the State's Collier Bill, when applied to their operating tax rates. But only the Mt. Diablo Unified District will have to apply an "override" tax in 1960-61.

The Mt. Diablo District will lose $176,864 in state aid. due to the Collier Bill, and an increase in the tax rate will amount to 14.2 cents.

See Page 3 for explanation of the Collier Bill

The Acalanes High School District will lose $33,065, but the operating tax rate will probably be only $1.70, compared to last year's $1.75.

THE LOWER rate is due to trustees' efforts to lower the rate after assessed valuations were greatly increased by county assessor office teams.

The situation is similar with the Walnut Creek district. With both, the operating tax rate, although less than last year, would be even lower, but for the Collier Bill.

In Walnut Creek District, the loss of state aid will be $32,643, and the operating tax rate $1.73, compared to last year's $2, which is the limit.

These figures from the county superintendent's office do not include the total tax, since such things as "state repayment" for loans have not been calculated yet.

THE ORINDA District will lose $23,482 in state aid, and the tax rate will increase from $2.13 to $2.39.

In Lafayette District, the loss will be $15,925, and the operating rate $2.43, compared to last year's $2.25.

Alamo District will lose $7345, and the rate will go from $2.20 to $2.50, which is the operating rate limit.

Danville District will lose $12,475, upping the operating rate by 10 cents.

NOT TAKEN into account in these figures are the possible losses due to lower principal apportionment based on assessed valuation, such as the aportionment for "growth," apportionment for transportation and also on the repayment of state loans.

These losses were also felt last year, but the bill was passed too late last year to affect the operating tax rate.

Nielsen Taking Welfare Battle To National Unit

Contra Costa County's stand on the current controversy involving the rights of counties to restrict Aid to Needy Children payments will be presented to the National Association of County Officials Wednesday, The Sun learned this week.

Chairman Mel Nielsen of the County Board of Supervisors said he is traveling to the association's convention in Miami, Florida, tomorrow in order to present the county's case to the group during its Wednesday sessions.

The county has withheld additional ANC payments to Mrs. Eula Henderson of Richmond on the basis that she refuses to reveal the father of her illegitimate child and refuses to take a lie detector test.

The county's action has caused repercussions on the state and federal level, and the supervisors have appealed to Congressman John Baldwin and U.S. Senators Clair Engle and Thomas Kuchel.

Last week a federal official said California can lose up to $60 million per year in welfare funds if it loses its battle with the county.

NOW THAT summer schools have closed their doors, recreation programs have ended and little league baseball has chosen its champs, youngsters in Orinda go ot the ol' swimming hole. Here, Jeffery Lewis (right) and David Prichard enjoy a neighborhood pool.

Team Suffers 1st Loss of Season

Orinda Park Pool swim team suffered its first loss in three years when it met with the Livermore Aquacowboys at Livermore recently.

The coach of the Orinda team, Don Anderson, announced the score at 284-224.

First place winners included Mary Lee Eldred (two firsts), John Kirby (two firsts), Carolyn Johnson, Marty Spittler, Linda Van Sickle, John Cooper, Debbie Saunders, Dave Henry, Sherry Sage (two firsts), Don Navone, Lorna Olsen, Helen Johnson, Larry Reed, Betsy Moore and Bick Bray.

Eight-and-under relay team also placed first with David Usinger, Kim Kersten, David Poupeney and Glen Madsen swimming.

David Usinger, Kent Williams, Judy Johanneson, Vic Buffalow, Sharon Bray, Dougie Bray, Kim Olsen, Kim Kersten, Tom Kirby, Roger Brewer, Mark Cunningham and Debbie Bray were among the winners of second place ribbons.

Tini Van Duyne, Glen Madsen, Robin Roth, Charles Eldred, Craig Spittler, Ed Buffalow and Leigh Thomas brought home third place points for their team.

Transit Directors Disagree Over Olympic Blvd. Route, But Adopt It

The Contra Costa members of the board of directors of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District are still not satisfied with plans for the first stage of the five-county system, but the third member is apparently pleased.

When the board met August 4, it tentatively approved plans for the first stage of the transit system. Objections, however, were registered by Harry L. Morrison and Marvin A. Joseph. H. L. Cummings voted with the majority in approving the plan.

Morrison, a Concord resident, and Joseph, a Richmond resident, particularly objected to the decision to use the former Sacramento-Northern Railroad right-of-way between Lafayette and Walnut Creek.

Use of this route—now called Olympic Boulevard—rather than routing the trains down the freeway, would save the district $3,320,000.

THE DIRECTORS pointed out that residents of both communities have voiced strong objections to the Olympic Boulevard routing.

Cummings, however, said, "Those people built their homes near the railroad and knew it was there. A fine, modern rapid transit system should not bother them as much as the railroad."

Keneth Hoover, chief engineer for the district, admitted that the first stage program does not go as far as everyone desires, but that it is the most extensive that can be built within the limitations of financing ability without cheapening the system.

"This is the best system that can be devised at this time and it will provide service superior to that offered anywhere else in the world," he said.

"THIS DOES not mean gold plating. These are not wasteful expenditures. It is designed to provide that if we find better means of design and construction and can reduce cost of the first stage, this will permit rapid expansion of the system to greater limits."

The problem faced by directors was to limit the system to a scope that can be financed. They came up with a system that is estimated to cost $909 million which is within the bonding limit.

There were also some objections to the terminals set for the five high speed train lines that will radiate out from a transbay tube.

AS NOW planned these would end at Cutting Boulevard in Richmond, and at Pleasant Hill; Hayward in Alameda County; Redwod City, San Mateo County; and Santa Venetia, north of San Rafael in Marin County.

All counties wanted longer lines.

It is still probable that the directors will add $18 million to the first stage cost to buy right of way for extensions of the lines into Richmond, to Concord, to Fremont, to Palo Alto, and Ygnacio.

Supervisors Will Protest Utility Assessment Roll

The Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors has directed County Assessor C. L. Dunklee to prepare a formal protest on the assessed valuations the State Board of Equalization has placed on utilities in the county for 1960-61.

SUPERVISORS have also invited John W. Lynch of Tulare, a member of the state board, to discuss the basis for the assessment before the board.

County Administrator J. P. McBrien told the supervisors that counties throughout California feel that they are assessing property at 25 per cent of market value.

While the state board claims it fixes the utilities assessments at 50 per cent of the utilities' value, the counties feel the state assessments are based on historic or original value, he said. Under present economic conditions this is far below actual market value, McBrien added.

McBRIEN SAID the county specifically wants to know what valuation was added by the state as the result of the Pittsburg P G & E plant construction, and what amounts were added because of the extension of all utility lines due to the county's growth.

He said it appears strange that the county's utilities assessment increased 2.07 per cent in one of the fastest growing areas in the state, while the statewide utilities assessment roll increased 4 per cent over last year.

McBrien told the board two bills adopted by the 1959 Legislature indicate that there will be attempts by the state to create parallel bases of valuation for the state-assessed utilities and county-assessed private property.

2 New Members Appointed to Acalanes Board

Two appointments to the five-member board of Acalanes Union High School District have been approved by the Contra Costa County Board of Education.

The board confirmed appointment of Mrs. Alla Knudsen of Lafayette and Glen Allen of Walnut Creek by County Superintendent Floyd Marchus, at its meeting Wednesday.

The new Acalanes board members succeed Mrs. Alice McBride of Walnut Creek and William B. Freeman of Lafayette. Both resigned.

Freeman, who has served since June 1950, said in his letter of resignation that he was leaving the board because he no longer has children in school in the district.

Freeman himself presented a high school diploma to his fifth and last son to attend Acalanes at graduation ceremonies June 16.

Mrs. McBride resigned because of personal business, she wrote. She has served on the board since October 1953.

Terms of both new members of the Acalanes governing board will expire in 1961.

Rapid Transit Route Protested In Chamber Note

A strong letter of protest has been sent by the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce to the county board of supervisors regarding the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's plan to use the Olympic Boulevard route between Lafayette and Walnut Creek.

The transit district directors, after informally agreeing that the route would follow the freeway, voted last week to use the Olympic Boulevard plan in order to save an estimated $3 million. (See other story this issue.)

The chamber's letter said, in part: "Their only reason, as far as we have been able to ascertain, is that use of the Olympic Boulevard route would save the rapid transit district an estimated $3 million.

"So for a $3 million portion of a $900 million project, the rapid transit district would choose to arouse the animosity of a large section of the Lafayette homeowners in a protest."

Secretary Chuck Johnson of the chamber said the district's move was poor public relations, in addition to leaving "an ugly scar" on the area.

Lindsey Spight Is GOP Elector

Lindsey Spight, 135 Camino Pablo, has been named one of the 32 California presidential electors ofr the Republican party, it was announced this week.

The Republican electors will cast California's vote for president if the party carries the state in the November election.

Books on Games On Exhibit Here

Do you plan to attend the Olympic Games in Rome this year?

Chances are you might want to be there in any case. Think of seeing Rome and perhaps more of Italy—Venice, Florence or Naples, as well as seeing the games themselves!

If you're staying right here in Orinda however, you might enjoy the exhibit of books in the Orinda library about the Olympic Games, their history and the various sports contests that will attract the finest athletes from all over the world.

Mrs. Shinomiya, the children's librarian, has arranged the exhibit which includes books on fencing skiing, sailing, sumo, wrestling, running, archery, tennis, golf, tumbling, books on the history of the Olympics, yesterday in sports, and—in case you are interested in Italy—wonderful collections of photographs of Rome, Florence and Venice and many others.

For those interested in guns, Dr. Browning's collection of antique firearms will be in the library a few more days.

'Circulation' of Circular Pool Is Considerable

H. J. DeKat, 60 Geary Court, Walnut Creek, sold his circular swimming pool on the second phone call after his want-ad appeared in The Sun.

And Mrs. M. H. Chandler of 3565 East View Drive, Lafayette, sold a girl's bicycle (in "very good condition") on the third call after her want ad appeared in The Sun.

Mrs. Chandler said she could easily have sold a lot of bikes.

These are only two of the many success stories told to Sun staffers each week, and classified customers are our enthusiastic boosters.

Their ads appear automatically on Wednesday in The Sun Shopping News, the 40,000 circulation free distribution paper in the central county, and also on Friday in the Walnut Creek Sun, Orinda Sun, Lafayette Sun and Pleasant Hill Sun — all for the same price.

A 14-word want ad costs you only $1.60.

Place your ad now — call YE 4-5000, AT 4-4444, or CL 4-4343.

CD Sirens Unpopular; 'Not My Neighborhood!'

The location of a County Civil Defense attack warning siren in the neighborhood, instead of giving a feeling of security, often results in a rash of complaints.

Will H. Perry, CD director, said:

"The location is generally on public property such as a school ground or on existent County rights-of-way.

"After selecting the exact siren location, we advise the residents that we propose to locate a siren in their neighborhood, and this is when the fun starts.

"We immediately receive complaints. Many are from the same people who have requested the installation in the first place.

"They ask, Why does it have to be on the corner near my house? Why can't it be two blocks away?

Or "They built a school right next door to me, do I have to have a siren next door also?" or "Why do you have to put it in the middle of our subdivision?

"Why can't it be on the other side of the hill where there are no homes?"

Or, "Why do you have to paint the thing yellow when pink lends itself to the color scheme in our neighborhood?"

Perry said, "We will be the first to admit that our yellow sirens are not the prettiest things in the world, but we feel that they are as much a necessity as power and phone poles."

Freeway Area To Be Planted

The State Division of Highways will open bids in Sacramento September 7 on a proposed landscaping project for about 2½ miles of the new freeway portion between the Orinda Crossroads and Sunnybrook Drive in Lafayette.

State officials said a total of $147,000 in state funds is available for the project.

Having The Facts Can Help Overcome A Fear of Snakes

By CONNIE PIKE

On moving here from urban life, you may become alarmed at seeing a snake scuttling along in the petunia bed. At sight of any long curling object, impulse tells you to shout "Snake! Snake!" and lock yourself indoors.

Usually you can beat the snake.

After three or four such exhibitions, the neighbors' conversation lingers embarrassingly on you and your "rattlers" and you begin to feel sheepish. Especially when your snake turns out to be a length of rope, a well-developed lizard or even a gigantic snail.

HEARING YOUR ignorance thus endlessly exposed to ribald laughter, you determine to learn something about snakes.

Your neighbors will be happy to tell you local snakes come in three basic forms—harmless gopher and king snakes, and the deadly rattlesnake.

They go on to say the king snake looks like three feet of black and white rings, but that the gopher snake and rattlesnake bear a certain resemblance.

You can determine which is which by examining the head and tail. Since the head comes equipped with fangs—sometimes poisonous—it may be better to examine the tail.

IT'S TRICKY examining a snake's tail at a distance of 50 feet, so you turn to the encyclopedia.

The snake's relatives are a motely crew, you learn. Homely turtles and tortoises, and mean alligators and crocodiles.

We all have family skeletons.

You would think 300 vertebrae would make snakes faster and more agile than men, but three m.p.h is a good snake speed. About the same as an average suburban pedestrian.

A small hope glimmers that in a tight spot you might outrun one.

Snakes can swallow mammals two or three times the thickness of their heads and digest the entire meal except for feathers and hair.

It's enough to give a skinny, bald-headed man pause.

STILL, YOU become a bit more confident as you learn, until you read that California has 14 different varieties of rattlesnakes with their little triangular heads and tailsful of rattles.

You close the book. The odds are against you.

With practice you can yet learn to keep your head. Keep a weapon handy—a husband works nicely, and if you don't have one it may be worth the investment.

If despite your best efforts you cannot overcome a fear of snakes, you would do well to move to the Arctic regions.

They don't have any snakes.

Just wolves.

Committee Established For Reservoir Study

Tentative appointment of an extensive Citizen's Advisory Committee has been approved by the executive committee studying proposed recreational use of EBMUD reservoirs in the East Bay area.

The executive committee, composed of representatives of both Alameda and Contra Costa County governments, the State Department of Health, State Fish and Game, EBMUD and Associated Sportsmen, is laying preliminary groundwork toward possible recreational development of at least two or more EBMUD reservoirs under procedures set up by Assembly Bill 286.

CONCURRENT recreational development of Lafayette and Chabot reservoirs first, has been recommended by subcommittee reports.

There appears to be no conflict involved regarding tentative negotiations by the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church for a college site near the Chabot Reservoir, according to EBMUD Secretary F. H. Eastman.

He said the acreage in which the church group has expressed interest is located in such a manner that it would not conflict with recreational planning which might be approved for Chabot.

WHEN THE expanded Citizens Advisory Committee is completed, the committee will be advised of preliminary work to late on proposed reservoir recreational uses and asked for its recommendations and support when supervisors of both counties make requests for formal surveys under the bill.

Mel Nielsen, Contra Costa County Board of Supervisor's chairman said some additional names will be proposed from Walnut Creek. Francis Dunn, Alameda County board chairman said his board would probably want to add some more names.

A general meeting of the executive committee with the more representative Citizens Advisory Committee is planned for some time in September.

We Are Proud

We've got some pretty outstanding youngsters in our various communities.

In fact, the things that they do are fantastic.

Consider Donna deVarona, Carolyn Schuler, George Harrison and Mike Brodie . . . as nice a list of good American names as you'd find anywhere.

WHAT DO THEY have in common? Three of them will represent the United States in the Olympics this summer, and the fourth put up an outstanding showing in the pre-game trials.

Or maybe it's just that the swimmers have more of an edge on the West Coast than the walking men do.

Donna comes from Lafayette and Carolyn and George from Orinda. See the sports page in the second section for details on their accomplishments.

Mike hails from Pleasant Hill, and The Sun carried a full story on his trip to the trials last month.

But all we wanted to say is that we're pretty proud of these youngsters. They are outstanding, all of them, and we wish them every success.

Suburbia Scribblings

Community — or cozily private — pools are part of a daily existence most of us take for granted. HERE we can swim the year 'round. Stay-at-homers are right when they say — "Where else can you go to beat THIS?" WISHY SAGE, by the way, was telling us at the Park Meet that she was to get her leg-long cast off on the morrow, a Big Day after wearing the darn thing TOO Long! Kidded by a cop about how she should be careful crossing the crosswalk or she'd have a cast to match on the other leg, Wishy said "Oh, no, but I am going to put a ruffle on the bottom of THIS one" (her pantaloon leg encased from ankle to hip. . . .) Cop gave her a dubious look & walked away muttering "Strictly from Squaresville . . . "

Astute Danville Youth Is Business Pro At 19

Described as having a mind "like an electronic computer" by a business partner more than twice his age, Kern Schumacher at age 19 is a full-fledged tycoon in a business that has grossed approximately $50,000 in less than a year.

Schumacher is a student at the University of California at Davis and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Schumacher of 16 Macomber Drive, Danville. He is also the full and responsible partner of Al Boyd in their firm which supplies railroad ties by the hundreds to ranchers, landscapers and do it yourself men from here to Utah.

MAJORING in business administration, it is not surprising to learn that the young man has taken his place in the business world since he was a tot of six.

Before the family moved to Danville, he appropriated an empty lot next door to his family's Montclair home and raised vegetables which he sold to neighbors at a profit.

When he was 12, Schumacher was mass producing planter boxes in his father's workshop, again making a neat profit. While in high school the enterprising youth founded a chemical business, buying materials in bulk, repacking them in smaller quantities and selling them to doctors, medical supply houses and similar markets.

HE SOLD the chemical business before graduation from high school, selling to an adult businessman. At the same time he dabbled in sidelines, always making a profit. Despite his business activities, Schumacher earned a place on the honor roll at San Ramon Valley High School from which he was graduated in 1958.

In 1956 he saw the possibilities of buying and selling railroad ties, when he noticed how handy the ties were in landscaping at the family home. He bought ties from the government, from contractors tearing up Key System tracks in Oakland and Berkeley and sold them around the East Bay.

Meeting his partner on a business transaction and several other business occasions last summer, Boyd was impressed with Schumacher's business head and ambition and last October they formed their present partnership.

TOGETHER they have bought and sold nearly 100,000 ties. At the present they are waiting to take delivery on their largest purchase to date—36,000 top grade redwood ties removed from the Bay Bridge's lower deck. Their bid of $37,000 was the highest submitted for the lot and the state should announce the award soon.

Anyone for CREA Director?

Would you like to be a state director of the California Real Estate Association?

The Contra Costa board is asking its brokers and salesmen this question. Appointments will be made next month.

Raeltors who feel they are qualified to represent the local board at quarterly meetings are asked to submit their names, said Wayne Bailey, board executive vice president.

Bailey also announced that the board of directors has approved a reduction of the Multiple Listing Service service fee from five per cent to two and a half per cent.

MLS committee chairman is Ted Poehler.

He said, "It is hoped that the reduction will encourage cooperation.

"Under the old rate, cooperation has been penalized while the cost of a listing's production is the same whether it is cooperative or not."

He added, "Since the extent of the cut cannot be properly estimated in terms of money paid to the board, the policy will be reviewed at the end of the year."

He's a Good Shot

Specialist Four Adrian M. Vandersloot, nephew of John and Marita Caris, 2019 Alfarado Avenue, Walnut Creek, was a member of the team which represented the 4th Armored Division's 54th Infantry in the recent Army European Prix LeClerc marksmanship matches in Germany.

County Approves New Tara Culvert

Chairman Mel Nielsen of the county board of supervisors announced that the board approved plans and specifications for the construction of a new culvert on Tara Road east of Orinda.

The new 100-foot-long, 48-inch reinforced concrete pipe culvert will replace the existing metal pipe. The work is to be done in conjunction with the installation of an additional 200 feet of 48-inch reinforced concrete pipe by the subdivider of the Tara Brook Subdivision.

Work on this culvert should start around September 12 and will be completed the latter part of October. Due to the height of fill over the existing culvert, the new culvert will be jacked into place under Tara Road and no detour will be required.

The estimated cost of the project is $5750.

The appointment of Douglas R. Page, of Walnut Creek, Democratic candidate for Congress, as one of California's 32 Democratic presidential electors, was announced this week.

Announcement of Page's election to the electoral board was made by Richard Haber, Kensington, and Mrs. Marge Freitas, Fairfield, Democratic co-chairmen of the sixth congressional district.

According to Haber and Mrs. Freitas, he was chosen by the recent Democratic state convention to represent this congressional district on the electoral board charged with the responsibility for casting the state's official ballot for John F. Kennedy should the Democratic presidential candidate carry the November election.

'Teenpower' Is Being Generated Here for the Benefit of Everyone

"Teenpower" is being generated by a group of almost 100 high school students aiding 16 private and tax-supported agencies as summer volunteers through the County Volunteer Bureau.

Mrs. Charles Stimpson of Danville, president, said the placements of the 13 to 19 year old boys and girls include day camps, clinics, swimming programs, mother's helpers, office assistants and recreation aides.

"Over the past three years our teenage program has greatly accelerated; until this summer it is a major contribution to the area by our capable, community-minded younger citizens," Mrs. Stimpson said.

"KNOWING THAT some of the teenagers registered with us to escape summer boredom, it is particularly gratifying to learn they are now exuberantly contributing to the many programs and needs of the organizations.

"Many selected a specific job experience hoping later to be able to qualify for paid jobs, while others are seeking clues to their own aptitudes and interest for future careers.

"And just as important is the enthusiasm expressed by spokesmen of the 16 organizations for the dependability and interest shown by the teenagers."

Organizations are Contra Costa County Health Department and Hospital; Lafayette Youth Center; United Crusade; Volunteer Bureau; Tuberculosis and Health Association; Mental Health Association of Central Contra Costa; East Bay Aid to Retarded Children.

AMERICAN RED Cross; Children's Club of Concord; Lafayette Recreation Department; Shadelands School operated by Contra Costa Cerebral Palsy Society, Walnut Creek Recreation Department; Y.M.C.A.; and Lynn Training Center.

For the first time teenagers were placed at the Rehabilitation Ward at the County Hospital and worked with the occupational therapist, Miss Davis.

Recreation assistants were sent to the Walnut Creek, Concord and Lafayette recreation programs.

The Mt. Diablo Y.M.C.A. used volunteers to chase small fry from 8:30 to 4:30 p.m. for ten day sessions of day camp. Some volunteers gave as much as 120 hours earning valuable experience.

Teenagers Bonnie Bartels and Phillip Barry worked as a team coding and mapping daily for weeks at the United Crusade offices and then install acoustical tile in the jointly used board room at the offices at 2030 North Main Street.

What Does Collier Bill Do To Your Taxes? . . . Just This

Under the terms of the Collier Bill, many of our school districts will face a cut in the amount of state funds received annually.

And, since the money has to come from someplace, it means that local taxpayers will make up the difference.

The apportionment of funds, and the problem of assessing property are complicated procedures. Some counties will gain, others will suffer under the state shift in fund apportionment, and your tax rate will be affected accordingly.

Here is a brief explanation of how it works on the state level.

School districts in 32 of California's 58 counties are facing a major cut in their state equalization aid this year as a result of a new law aimed at giving real meaning to the term "equalization."

AT THE same time the reshuffling of more than $151,000,000 in state funds will benefit 22 other counties whose grants will be increased.

State education officials say Alameda County's slice of the melon will be larger while Contra Costa will get a smaller one. Local officials estimate the Alameda County increase will total about $1,023,644 and that Contra Costa will lose $422,424.

Dr. Walace Hall, chief of the State Division of Public School administration, explains the shift this way:

Under terms of the Collier Act passed by the last legislature, all school districts in California will be measured for state equalization aid on the basis of whether they are above or below the state property assessment average.

PROPERTY owners in Alameda County, for example, are assessed locally at a rate that is slightly higher than the state average. Because they are contributing more to schools as a result of the higher assessment ratio, the state feels that its contribution, too, should be greater.

In the case of a county such as Contra Costa, Dr. Hall explained, the assessment ratio is said by the state to be lower than the statewide average and therefore the state's contribution should be lower.

The act is designed to penalize districts which qualify as "poor" only because their property is under assessed, he added.

Only three California counties have assessment ratios the same as the state average—Los Angeles, Trinity, and Yolo. San Francisco does not qualify under the equalization aid statute because of its city-county status.

The assessment ratios throughout the state range from 20 to 30 per cent of market value of the property with the state average about 23.5 per cent.

The State Department of Education, however, uses a special yardstick to measure the amount of aid it doles out. The factor is based on a scale of 1.00 as average.

Dr. Hall said Contra Costa County falls .08 below average and Alameda County is .02 above.

STATE SCHOOL aid to districts is complicated and difficult to explain, the school chief admitted. But he offered this simplified example as a basis for understanding the system:

The legislature has decreed that every child in the state is entitled to have $234 spent on his education every year.

The state provides a basic grant of $125 toward this goal. The local district then levies a tax of 60 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to apply toward the difference.

IF, BECAUSE of a low assessed valuation, the 60 cent rate does not raise sufficient funds to bring the total allocation for each child up to the specified $234, the state will make up the difference in what is called "equalization aid."

The state will spent $679,000,000 on aid to educate this year including the $151,000,000 equalization aid, according to the governor's budget, an increase of some $40,000,000 over last year.

Dr. Hall said the exact equalization grants have not yet been figured for all of the counties and districts. But he offered this list of counties where more money will be spent by the state:

Alameda, Alpine, Calaveras, Glenn, Inyo, Kern, Kings, Lassen, Marin, Modoc, Monterey, Nevada, Riverside, San Benito, San Diego, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Shasta, Sierra, Siskiyou, Sonoma, and Ventura.

Counties whose equalization subsidies will be cut include Amador, Butte, Colusa, Contra Costa, Del Norte, Eldorado, Fresno, Humboldt, Imperial, Lake, Madera, Mariposa, Mendocino, Merced, Mono, Napa, Orange, Placer, Plumas, Sacramento, San Bernardino, San Joaquin, San Luis Obispo, San Mateo, Santa Barbara, Solano, Stanislaus, Sutter, Tehama, Tulare, Tuolumne, and Yuba.

Seven File for Sanitary Board

Seven candidates have filed for three positions on the Central Contra Costa Sanitary District's board of directors.

Incumbents Frank W. Salfingere and Irving C. Roemer have filed for reelection on September 13. The other expiring term is that of Ernest I. Spiegl, who does not seek reelection.

The five others who have filed are Charles J. Gibbs, 134 Sleepy Hollow Road, Orinda; John J. Connolly, 30 Alegra Court, Walnut Creek; Robert J. Pelusi, 1915 Riviera Drive, Walnut Creek; Ben F. Hartinger, 2076 Ramona Drive, Pleasant Hill; and Sherwood S. Knight Jr., 1341 Juanita Drive, Saranap.

AT LAST Thursday's meeting of district directors, they declared themselves opposed to Public Law 660 which provides for federal aid to impoverished sanitary districts.

Despite midwestern sentiment for the law, they said, they "just don't like it."

District Manager Gerry Horstkotte was granted $12,000 to begin establishing permanent records of the district's sewer system. He estimated the job would require five years and from $50,000 to $75,000.

AUTHORITY was granted to annex to the district a 310-foot by 310-foot parcel of land at the Casa Blanca golf course site, at a cost of $191 per acre plus the cost of processing.

Horstkotte said the outfall sewer line would be completed today.

He told directors he expected to meet Tuesday with the owners of approximately 1000 acres in the San Ramon area relative to installation of a sewer trunk line.

Horstkotte later said the meeting consisted mostly in discussion and no conclusions were reached. He did not identify the property owners.

The U.S. imported 668,000 foreign-built automobiles last year, including 210,500 from England and 205,800 from Germany, reports the California State Automobile Association.

Art Shows Abounding; Have A Look!

Mrs. Mona Williams, exhibit chairman for the Diablo Art Association, invited the public to view nine one-man shows during August.

At Suburban Carpets, Walnut Creek; are oil paintings by Delora France of Danville.

Sears, Walnut Creek, is displaying nature water colors by Arthur Odbert, Lafayette.

Fred Pring of Danville is showing water colors in Comptons Walnut Creek, and Kaiser Hospital is displaying oil paintings by Irma Eustise of Walnut Creek.

Two Berkeley members of the association, Helen Wood and Muriel Backman, are hanging in the Pleasant Hiill Rest Home, and Ralph, Tony and Owen Beauty Salon, respectively.

In conjunction with Mrs. Molinas one-man show of paintings is a display of original Christmas card designs done by this artist.

As a student at UCLA where she did cartooning for the college humor magazine, Mrs. Molina designed cards for friends on special occasions. These became so popular she found that what had begun as an occasional favor became a business-like hobby of designing Christmas cards.

After graduation the Molinas moved to Stockton where her hobby flourished with over 1000 pleased clients.

Moving to Walnut Creek, where they now live at 46 Vista Lane, Mrs. Molina has resumed her art work and designing.

Hal Cheny Is Crusade's Diablo Valley Chairman

Hal C. Cheney, college business coordinator, was appointed Diablo Valley chairman for the 1960 United Crusade drive, announced William Q. Walden of Martinez, central chairman.

Cheney said, "I am pleased to accept this responsibility. During recent years while serving as countywide public relations chairman and a solicitor I experienced keen satisfaction in participating in a successfuly integrated community effort.

"I believe the United Crusade to be the most important effort to meet urgent human needs and build positive values at the same time."

He has been coordinator of business education at the Diablo Valley College, for four years. Cheney has been a teacher, and was state director of business and distributive education in Utah.

He was regional supervisor for the Bureau of Business Education for the California State Department of Education in Berkeley and was president of the bay area business education forum last year.

Cheney and his wife, Frances, and their four children reside on Elena Drive, Walnut Creek.

Other volunteer leaders assisting in the Diablo Valley drive will be leading businessmen. They are Jack Wolverton, realtor, Walnut Creek chairman; Joseph Longacre, attorney, Orinda chairman; T. C. Murphey, pharmacist, Lafayette chairman; David McIlmoil, banker, for Danville; and Robert I. Harman, insurance broker, for Pleasant Hill.

The Mart is closed Sundays and Mondays but is open all other days from 10 to five.

THE CANVASES range widely in size and subject.

She said, "Choose one you'd like to live with and take it home for three months.

"It can be renewed if you like for another three months, and if you find you cannot part from your masterpiece, you may buy it and the rental you have paid will be applied to the purchase price. Rentals start at $4 a month."

Through the Valley Art Center rental gallery, persons interested in the work of a particular artist may arrange to visit his studio and view his work in progress.

THE ART Center also keeps a list of recognized portrait painters for those interested, she said.

Among artists whose paintings are available at the rental gallery are Eleanor Anderson, Jonathan Bachelor, Catherine Barieau, Blanche Brody, Edith Finken, Hildegarde Haas, Karl Kasten, Irene Lagoric, Maury Lapp.

Chamber Board Will Hear Study Of Special Area

Directors of the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce are expected to hear a report on alternate plans for forming a community services district in the community at a board meeting at noon Wednesday in Jim's Chuck Wagon.

The report will be presented by Margaret Mattei, local attorney, and Joseph Connery, Lafayette resident who is a member of the county administrator's staff. Connery met with a special chamber committee Monday morning.

MEMBERS of the chamber board will be asked to consider the report and to determine in what form the information will be presented to a general membership meeting of the chamber sometime next month.

Connery and Mrs. Mattei explained to the committee Monday that there are several alternate means by which the Lafayette community can realize a community services district.

This proposed district would cover facilities such as lighting, off-street parking, curbs and gutters and the like.

THE COUNTY official said the main problem confronting the chamber is one of informing the public. He said residents must be made aware of the benefits and advantages of setting up the special district.

Mrs. Mattei explained the legal steps involved in the establishment of such a special district. She said after boundaries are set and the district proposal is presented to the County Board of Supervisors, the board can set up the district if there are no protests.

But, she added, if a petition bearing the signatures of 10 per cent of the residents within the proposed district is presented to the supervisors an election must be held.

THE SPECIAL election must be held within 60 days, she explained, and a simple majority of the registered residents within the area is sufficient to establish the district.

Rescue Unit Leader Talks To Rotary

Russell Cone spoke before the Lafayette Rotary Club last Thursday on a unique public service called the Calo Rescue Unit, which assists in the search for persons lost in the rural or mountain areas of the State of California.

Cone directs the unit and pioneered the extensive use of bloodhounds in California for rescue work. He began working with his first dog as a hobby in 1950. Requests for his services became more and more frequent until Cone was no longer able to afford the time and money required.

IT WAS THEN that the Calo Dog Food people stepped in and placed Cone on a full time salary. Now Cone and the dogs are on standby call 24 hours a day.

They are available to any California sheriff or other authorized county, state or federal agency, needing aid in locating a lost person.

Cone said, "Records indicate that 50 per cent of all lost persons are children and that on the average, someone will become lost three times a month that will require an organized search.

"As more vacationers enter the mountain areas of California, the number of lost persons is increasing and so is the need for the Calo Rescue Unit."

CONE LISTED five rules to follow for older children and adults who lose their way.

"First," said Cone, "you must admit to yourself that you are lost. This is the hardest thing of all to do, but is will give you an almost 100 per cent chance of being found alive and well."

Cone gave as his first rule, "Stay where you are. If you try to find your way back you may suffer from a fall or suffer from exhaustion. You may also unknowingly circle back into an area which has already been searched."

The last rule offered by Cone was, "If hunger is severe, eat anything that does not taste bad or have a milky sap."

Mission San Francisco Solano de Sonoma, located in the city of Sonoma, is the most northerly of the missions and was founded in 1823, reports the California State Automobile Association.

County Water Agency Opposes Proposition One

Contra Costa County Water Agency went on record last week as being opposed to Proposition One, the $1.8 billion water bond issue which will appear on the November ballot.

Principal objections to the water bill are those concerned with the bill's lack of assurance of protection for the county's interests in the Delta.

SUPERVISOR Thomas J. Coll suggested the agency oppose only the specific points in the issue which directly affect the county. However, Chairman Mel Nielsen said that if the entire proposition is wrong, the agency should take a stand against the whole issue.

County Administrator Joseph P. McBrien suggested the agency's resolution specifically state as the reason for opposition the lack of adequate protection for the Delta region in the water plan. His suggestion was accepted.

The agency voted after a 20-minute talk by Senator George Miller in which he attacked the principles under which the California Water Plan was organized and the attitude of the state water department and southern interests who have been pushing for this plan and for Proposition 15, the proposed reapportionment of the state senate.

ASSEMBLYMAN Jerome Waldie spoke, following Miller. Waldie stated the agency had originally held off in its decision so as not to upset the chances of getting federal legislation, the Engle Bill, to help the Delta.

He stated that federal help was not coming, and that there is essentially nothing in Proposition One for the county. Agency Consultant William O'Connell stated that there is no plan at present for development of the Delta area.

O'Connell added that he and Attorney Thomas Carlson have had little cooperation from the water department in finding out what exactly the department intends to do with the Delta if the $1.8 billion bond issue is passed in November.

Laf-Frantics Getting an Early Start

Once again getting the jump on La Scala, the New York Met and San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf, Laf-Frantics opens the current opera season with an offering from the popular young team of Gilbert and Sullivan.

Originally titled "Trial By Jury," the show has been especially adapted by the "Weltys" of Alamo for presentation at "Trial-La-Laws" with back acts.

The score is centered about a breach of promise suit, with the action all occurring in the courtroom.

Musical directors Frances Ferriter and Jack Peterson have drawn on internationally famed voices in their tireless search for perfection. From far off Tarquinia they have dug up an Estruscan contralto. Others hail from Pacheco and Milpitas. Choreography is under the creative foot of Lafayette's own Mexican spitfire, Betsey Young.

upplementing the evening's entertainment the company will offer selections from earlier Laf-Frantics shows.

THESE BACK acts will include the sophisticated "Dance Wid Da Guy Wot Brung Me;" a challenge to young lovers, "Three Old Maids;" that saga of the sea, "The Lite House;" and for additional international flavor, "The Chinese Ballet."

The show, now rehearsing, will be seen at Lafayette Town Hall September 23 and 24; September 30 and October 1; October 7 and 8. Tickets are priced at $1.50.

Proceeds will be donated to Lafayette Community Center. Reservations may be made with Mrs. J. P. Van Overveen, ATlantic 3-3650.

Babe Didrikson Zaharias, whose memory is honored by the American Cancer Society's annual Babe Didrikson Zaharias Memorial Golf Tournament, won the 1932 Olympic javelin throw with a record-breaking toss of 143 feet 4 inches.

Party Lights Go On When The Kids Get Back In Town

By ENID HENNESSY

The party lights were on at Diane Davidson's house Friday night when she played hostess to a crowd of invited guests and "crashers." Glenna Clark was there with Darrel Courtright and Shelly See was there with Bill Sage. Dave Puddy, Judy Courtright and Sam DeFranco were also there livin' it up. Mark Littlejohn practically took over the whole party when he arrived in the usual Littlejohn style and started dancing with every girl he could get hold of. Diane was a little bit embarrassed when her 13-year-old brother decided to join in the party and started asking every girl in sight to dance with him.

Two ex-seniors are going to be running up quite a phone bill by calling up their girls from Hawaii. Milt Howe called Katy McQuaid last week along with best friend Jeff Neighbor, who called Sylvia Silva. Milt had forgotten Katy's phone number in those six or so weeks he has been in Hawaii and called Jeff's house instead. A good thing Jeff caught him in time or Milt would have had two bills to pay.

Nancy Englehart, Linnett Trefts and Mike McQuaid went to Echo Lake recently with Steve Miller and his parents. They plan to ski, swim and make the most of their holiday.

Dwight Thompson has been suffering with tonsil trouble. He had his tonsils out last week and didn't feel terribly well afterwards. "It was worse than I thought it would be," he says.

Charlene Doxie had a party on the fourth of August. She was with Darrell Courtright, Sue Henry came with Bill Kent, Bill Sage was with Shelly See. Cris Almond and Tom White were there with Suzie Lahti and Dotty Potter. They danced, ate pizza and listened to KEWB when it started playing its "Dusty Records" at midnight.

Cris Almond really had it good when he went to Don Kidd's party Sunday night. He and his harem, Judy Poole, Dotty Potter, Barb Smith and Suzie Lahti, joined Pat Barnes and Mike Finn and the rest of the couples in dancing and having a good time.

Judy Courtright is going with the Carters to Ford Ord in the near future to see Jim Carter. Jim went into the National Guard in early July.

Sherry Odenthal and Carole Gilmore went to Carmel last weekend to stay at Carole's grandmother's house for a few days. Her brother Pat and Bob Merriam came down later. Bob and Pat met Bob Davis there and Bob's girl friend arranged dates for the boys.

Ginny Allen has broken her engagement with Loren. Now she is seeing a lot of Bob Hecocks, who thinks the whole deal is pretty great. Bob had a party Tuesday night because Squire Fridell was Rhoda, Bill Jacabosen and Sharon Gillespie, Squire and Sue Henry, leaving the next day to go back to his forest firefighting job. Dave were there with several others. There were a few accidents such as the plant and vase that was knocked off the wall, and the plate that almost, but not quite was broken when it was knocked off its perch over the fire place. By the way, what is it that Steve Bradley and Bob are so proud of over the fire place?

Vicki McCosker just came back from her vacation at Tahoe. She saw Charlie Ward, Greg Peterson, Bob Woodward and Bob Connolly at Meeks Bay and Karin Eklund working as a hostess at a restaurant at Squaw Valley. Heather Thurston was working at Harrahs Club for two weeks dancing in Tony Martin's show. Kitty Mika and Sue Nattress were seen up at Tahoe having a ball.

Bill Carroll and Rich Lyman have started working at the Tahoe Tavern. Butch Guarneri is also working there.

Kurt Lundblad is busy working at Yosemite National Park.

All the seniors now have their senior supplements. There are about 20 left over, however, so any other people who would like a copy of it can secure one if they phone me or stop by my house and get one. They are 50 cents each.

Tall Straight, Healthy, And In Excellent Condition

Have you looked at your youngsters lately?

And if you don't have any (the exception in this area) take a good, long look at the neighbors' kids.

You'll find that they are brown as berries, straight as ramrods, and that the boys are just bulging with nice, developing muscles.

And the girls look pretty healthy, too!

WHERE DID ALL this fine physical conditioning come from? Certainly if our local youngsters are any sample, the coming generation is not at all soft. In fact, it's in a lot better condition than the last generation, we'll bet.

Take a look at a couple of outstanding examples. Donna deVarona, the 13 year-old girl from Lafayette who competed in the Olympic swimming trials Tuesday.

Then there's George Harrison, 21 of Orinda, who will compete in the same trials.

And Mike Brodie of Pleasant Hill just returned from trying out for the Olympic Walking Team, where he did very well.

Whether or not these youngsters win is not the point. They are outstanding examples of what our local youngsters can do physically.

True, most of our youngsters are not outstanding athletes, but they are certainly healthy and can hold their own.

How did they get this way?

TAKE ANOTHER look around. Each of our communities has a well organized summer recreation program going that gives the kids a chance to develop outdoors in the fine sunshine.

You simply can't ignore the baseball leagues, either. You can't walk down the street without running into a miniature Giant, complete with glove and hat.

Our schools do their part, too. Each school has an excellent physical education program, and a wonderful athletic program after school and in the evenings.

If you don't think so, just go out to one of the prep football games this fall and watch those kids play.

The basketball and baseball boys are equally good, and so are the track, tennis and swimming teams.

Then there are the after school recreation programs that keep the rest of the youngsters in good shape plus providing wholesome recreation.

SO WE FIND THAT our kids are, physically speaking, pretty well off.

Or they should be. If they aren't, then it's simply because they haven't taken advantage of some of the fine opportunities that exist right in their own backyard.

Or you haven't pointed them out to the youngsters.

Take another look. How's your child doing?

Not For You, Of Course

Most of us, sometime during the summer, have the opportunity to spend time in the water with our families.

You can hardly avoid it with the community swimming pools that abound in the area, to say nothing of private pools and the other facilities.

And of course there is the fascination of the miles of waterways in the Delta region.

THEN THERE ARE the kids, who seem, sometimes, to have been born in the water the way they love to stay, and stay, and stay.

Truly, our waterways and pools can be wonderful places to spend the hot days, but they can also be dangerous.

There are safety rules, of course, but it is a human failing to consider such rules "for the other guy," because it could never happen to you.

Unfortunately, it can.

How would you feel if, next Sunday, you and the family went out to enjoy a day by the water — any water — and you came home without your youngest child — or your wife, if you have no children?

IT WOULD NOT only ruin your day, it would make a serious impression on your whole life.

So here are some general water safety rules for a guide. Of course you know them all, and of course you follow them all the time. But just in case you need a refresher course:

Learn to swim
Never swim alone or in unsupervised areas
Avoid swimming after meals
Avoid known shark areas
Do not swim after dark
Avoid over-fatigue and excess sun
Know artificial respiration.

Take to the Boats, Men!

Have you noticed the number of boats that you see parked in garages and car ports around the community?

It's getting so that most people have a two-car garage — one space for the car, the other for the boat.

This is natural because of all the fine waterways in the Delta, where boating and water skiing are a positive delight.

But with boating and water-skiing go responsibilities.

And, although we are all responsible people, there are some of us who may have just forgotten some of the cardinal rules of boating and water-skiing safety.

And if that is the case, here they are:

BOATING RULES:

1. Check all life belts (one per passenger).
2. Check safety items and how to use them — lights, mirrors, fire extinguisher.
3. Have skilled person aboard.
4. No tricks or stunts.
5. If you get capsized, hang on to boat until help comes.
6. Know boating rules and regulations.

WATER SKIING:

1. Use safety belts or life jackets
2. Ski before eating
3. Skiers must be swimmers
4. Ski in specified and non-crowded areas
5. Observe speed limits
6. Drinking and skiing don't mix.

The Staff Corner

Have You Telephonitis?

By JEAN JERNIGAN

Checked your telephone manners lately? Read in a recent news item that two men had talked coast to coast via the moon.

The thought occurred that a lot of telephone users would be much happier if those of us who have forgotten our phone manners were shipped to the moon, rocket express, one way, to commune with space.

We teach our children to say please and thank you, to take messages, not to slam the receiver, talk in a well modulated voice and not to talk TOO LONG.

WE EVEN set timers, hang over them and tell them it is time to cease, we do EVERYTHING to keep those burbling conversations within limits. Then what happens? Mom gets on the phone for hours and hours, even Dads are guilty. Reliving the 19th hole can be pretty interesting!

Long conversations on a private line are just as annoying as gab fests on party lines. How do you know you're not missing a date with tall, dark and handsome, while you gush on about that strapless formal bought for the very purpose?

COMMUTING is sufficiently frustrating without causing Dad a migraine because he has called, and called and called to say he will be detained, eventually calling a neighbor in desperation, because his own line is busy.

Endless jabbering is completely unforgivable on a party line. No matter how important the call, one can't interrupt and say, "This is an emergency," unless it really is an emergency, so one sits and frets, business both personal or otherwise is delayed.

One lady we know finally acquired a private line. She needn't have done this, if the other party on her line had remembered to be a lady on the telephone as well as in person. Every morning she made a call. Every morning the call lasted approximately two hours.

WOMEN and phones just kind of go together naturally. No one wants to be a spoil sport, but really, gals, let's be reasonably.

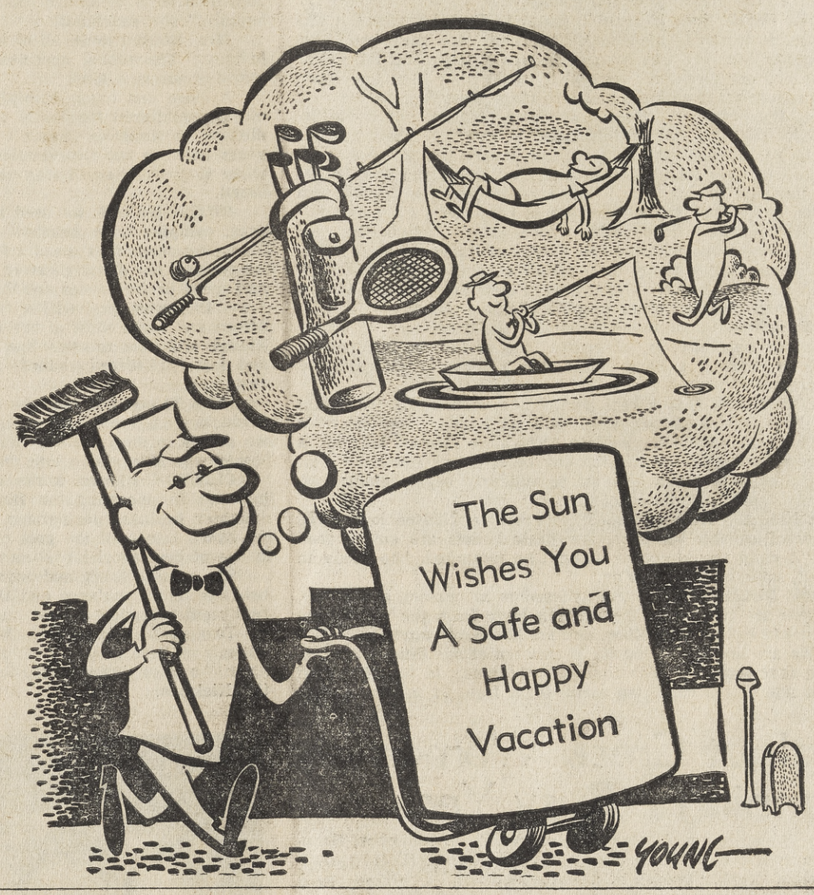
The telephone company suggests limiting calls to five minutes. They also suggest when making a series of calls in the course of club work or some other activity, to wait a few minutes between calls to let others have an opportunity to use the phone, or to reach you, as the case may be.

IF THE gossip, or the receipe, or the arrangements just have to exceed five minutes, why not hang up and call back a second time later in the day

Phones are our friends in need, useful tools, a means of communication. We'd be lost without our telephones, but let's act on the phone the way we insist our children act, prompt, courteous and brief!

Now let's see, Oh yes, that reminds me, I must call my neighbor and tell her ALL about our trip . . . but I'll set the timer!

Ahhhhhh.....Summertime!



Letters To The Editor

BEAR CREEK ROAD

(Editor's note: The following is a copy of a letter to Boone Robinson, County Planning Commission member who lives in Orinda, from Robert Kahn, president of the Happy Valley Improvement Association, regarding the relocation of Bear Creek Road).

Dear Editor:

I noticed in The Sun of July 29 a quote attributed to you which says as follows: "I am at a loss to understand how the residents at Happy Valley and Sleepy Hollow will be damaged."

Frankly, Mr. Robinson, I am at loss to understand where you have gathered the idea that the residents of Happy Valley have claimed that they will be damaged. I thought, during the presentation to the planning commission, that you were awake, alert, and listening. Evidently you were not—and so that you may review what I said, I am enclosing a photocopy of the remarks that I read. I defy you to find any statement in here which says in any way that Happy Valley residents feel that they will be damaged.

As I recall the hearings—and I sat through both of them—I was the only representative from Happy Valley that spoke. Any remarks that other representatives may have made about Happy Valley cannot be attributed to Happy Valley and are strictly their own arguments.

The simple and fundamental question that we raised, Mr. Robinson, was whether or not a prudent man with full consciousness of doing a good job and presumably an intelligent job, would continue to proceed along plans laid out in 1955 when it was not envisioned that any of the terminal reservoirs would be opened for recreational purposes, in the light of the rapid change being made in the position of East Bay Municipal Utility District.

In addition, the statements of the Sleepy Hollow Improvement Association and the Orinda Association all ask just one thing—to think before you jump; to review before you finalize; to act like a planning commission by doing some review of planning rather than feeling committed to a decision which, as you said, was made before you were on the commission.

I frankly feel that the citizens of this county are entitled to more constructive and open-minded thinking than was evidenced by the board—and particularly by yourself in light of the leading questions which you asked to your own staff before presenting your resolution. It is interesting that when Mr. Young, who evidently was listening during the presentation and did have some questions, wanted to ask about certain points, he was cut off completely.

ROBERT KAHN

(Editor's note: The following is a copy of a letter which was sent to Chairman Mel Nielsen of the County Board of Supervisors.)

Dear Editor:

Your stand in the Mrs. Eula Henderson welfare case is certainly one that I approve of so I want to add my commendation to the others that I'm sure you have received.

Since I have recently been critical of some of the actions of the Contra Costa County Supervisors I want to commend them and also the stand of District Attorney John Nejedly in this same matter. A copy of this letter is going to the Sun so that they will know that all my letters are not critical.

This case certainly does point up the fact that when money is received from any but a local source that that outside source is going to try and take a hand in how the money is spent. It would seem to me better that local governments take care of their own problems—and I hope cases like this lead to a trend in the local problems being solved locally.

It would now appear that Contra Costa County officials are going to win their point in this Henderson case, if they do, as they should, then it could lead to other welfare economies.

Again, congratulations on your stand.

Snapshots That Never Made the Summer Album!

By MARIE MONAHAN

TWO WEEKS WITH . . . Tents & tarps, beer & deer, bears & scares, flat tires & flares . . . soft shoulders, hard ground, mosquitoes & bees, ticks & fleas, Coleman stoves, greasy spoons, sooty pans & wondering why you EVER left home!

Will you ever forget . . . the first night out with new tent? The pegs & poles, the slots & knots, the legs & holes & the darn thing collapsing just as you dropped off to Nodsville?

SUMMER'S NO VACATION, but it IS a change . . . the laundry done in a lively brook; the first time faced with fresh trout to clean cook & the fish-eyed stares & glares exchanged by the Missus & the Men & Boys as they proudly dropped a slipperly bunch of bass or trout at her feet!

EVEN the stars look different from high in the Sierras or from the sand-dunes along the seashore because you never before star-gazed so long TRYING to get to sleep!

DO YOU REMEMBER . . . The drop-in company being the BEARS—after your icebox full of steaks & you didn't even invite them!!

The irresistible urge to uproot the flora & ferna, the pine seedlings, the sudden awareness of God's growth you paid little heed to until you became a homeowner yourself & started as a steady at the Nursery?

THE GAY CAMARADERIE of meeting other campers . . . who were so nice to come to your rescue when your campfire sent out sooty smoke signals & nobody, but NOBODY locked more like Novices! . . . who swapped trail tips & trip quips just like back home here over the back fence . . .

WOULD IT NEVER STOP? The interminable queries from the kids . . . "How much farther, Dad?" . . . "What time is it now, Mom?" . . . "Will we be there by lunch" & "Can we stop for something? I'm huuuuungry!"

The children playing "States No States Back" especially in the Nat'l Parks where the out-of-state license plates made much more of an impression on them than the famous scenic views.

INSPIRATION POINTS . . . perspiration points, not to mention sheer exasperation points!

The inevitable losses—sunglasses & such! A coat retrieved from a restaurant 17 miles back (Just like a woman!) & the frustration for Father again when suddenly he realizes you've given him a Bum Steer at that last turnoff—a little matter of 34 miles out of the way, in the heat of the day, in the WRONG direction! (Never mind the wildflowers, DEAR, just mind at the maps!)

THE THINGS WE DID this summer . . . The piling in & piling out & then back IN the car again. The unending series of STOPS at service stations & roadside rests . . . A few miles down the road & the inevitable wail from a small voice in the rear who was too busy with cokes & curios & never DID get to where he was supposed to be headed for.

So Another STOP!

AMONG OUR SOUVENIRS . . . The always-hurried frantic mailing of a card to friend or family . . . The nifty gifty shoppes where you succumb to stuff you could get in the Dime Store back home . . . The children pesting for pennants . . . the wrinkly crinkly clothes, the dusty feet, the enveloping heat, the insect world around you!

The Overheated engine, the overheated father, the overtired children & the lazy languid lethargy that hits you all on the head as you head home.

HARDLY through the door, the strange sound of a telephone ringing . . . & a jovial voice gives you the jubilant news . . . "We just got into town & we're coming to see you."

OH BOY! Oh Joy! Not Houseguests AGAIN!

Question: Must Growth Destroy Town Beauty?

By HERMAN SILVERMAN

Some weeks ago a letter-to-the-editor suggested that I should get a copy of a booklet, "More Attractive Communities for California." It was recently published by California Roadside Council Inc.

I have just read the booklet and found it most interesting. And since so many of you are interested in the growth, beauty and the future of the community, I think you'll find some good ideas from the publication. (If you are working on a town beautification committee, you may want to send for the booklet—12 Garces Drive, San Francisco).

Incidentally, William Penn Mott, resident of Orinda and director of the Oakland Park Department, is on the Council's editorial committee. Pictured in the booklet is a tree planting day in Orinda.

When suburbia marches in . . .

What happens when our countryside disappears before the advance of suburbia? Does growth have to bring ugliness? Well, let's read the paragraphs under this heading, "Must Growth Destroy Beauty?"

"Growth need not be destructive. It can open new opportunities for order and beauty if planning is far-sighted and wise.

Here's a tough question

NEW SUBDIVISIONS: We are all too aware of the unattractive features of many housing tracts—the raw newness, the tiny lots, the destruction of old trees, the usual lack of parks and playgrounds, and the monotonous sameness. The question to be solved is this: Can subdivisions, necessary to fill a housing need, be profitable and still show a sense of design and a real relation to their surroundings?

"FREEWAYS: Like subdivisions, freeways solve one problem and at the same time create another. To carry traffic efficiently, overwhelming networks of concrete are being constructed, often threatening a city's good features and obliterating its personality. But this misfortune often can be avoided.

"Well planned, a freeway can contribute to good appearance. In some communities it gives backbone to a mass of unorganized streets. Certain elevated freeways divert attention from unattractive areas while revealing fine skyline views. Good landscaping of freeway borders helps make the system a visual asset. From the very beginning, when location and design of new freeways are first under consideration, all these possibilities should be kept in mind.

And along the roadside . . .

"ROADSIDE STRIP DEVELOPMENT: Although freeways avoid close contact with the older routes' roadside business, much of the clutter is visible, and close along other thoroughfares, chaos and ugliness still prevail.

"In some communities, however, the roadside businessmen themselves, realizing the practical value of good appearance, have supported sound regulatory measures.

"NEW MAJOR CONSTRUCTION: The typically standardized new schools, shopping centers, industrial plants and apartment groups are huge, spic and span and functional. But many of them, from Eureka to San Diego, look as though they all had been turned out of one gigantic mold. Some developers and architects appreciate the need of relating contemporary architecture to the surrounding community. Those who have this understanding need more support from investors, officials and others who make decisions regarding new construction.

"With these manifestations of modern growth comes the danger that too much of value is being removed. Many fine old specimen trees, and sometimes whole blocks of street trees, go down before the bulldozer. Old buildings which formerly gave charm to the central city are replaced by barrack apartments, service stations and parking lots.

"To be sure, urban growth requires changes. But citizens need to be vigilant lest too much of the fine, the unique and the historic is sacrificed on the altar of the quick dollar.

Dark and bright pictures

"Unless we preserve distinctiveness where it exists and develop it in new areas, most of us may find ourselves living in monotonously functional houses, far from trees or parks, a half-hour or more by freeway from our places of work, and in a tract so standardized that we hardly can be sure what city we live in—and perhaps won't even care.

"Serious as these problems are, opportunities also come with growth. Planners, architects, landscape architects and citizen groups, working together with creativeness and sound judgment, can guide new development into channels leading to greater civic beauty."

Well, what do you think?

Letters to The Editor

PETS AND PALS

Dear Editor:

It is not clear to many animal lovers in Contra Costa County why The Sun took one incident of a woman criticizing Pets and Pals and made a front page story out of it, without giving the background of Pets and Pals.

If The Sun is a fair-minded, two-sided newspaper I am sure it will publish the other side of the story.

Why didn't the woman who lost her dog inquire at Pets and Pals for it? It is understandable why Pets and Pals didn't report the stray dog to the Animal Control. The Animal Control would have immediately picked up the dog, and, by law, could have put him to death within 72 hours (if an unlicensed crossbreed).

What humanitarian would submit a helpless creature to such a fate?

Glad Sargent is a great humanitarian, who has kept some dogs and cats as long as three years in her shelter, trying to find homes for them.

Put yourself in the dog's place. Would you rather wait in a loving shelter, even if dirty, until you found a good home, or, would you rather be put to death immediately in immaculate surroundings?

As to these so-called dog-lovers, who are too lazy to help out at Pets and Pals but jump at a chance to criticize it — what are they doing to help the animals? Call on them for help and find out for yourself!

Glad Sargent's non-profit shelter (started 10 years ago) has placed 10,000 animals in good homes. Although located in Contra Costa County, Glad says she has not received one cent from the county.

All the money for Pets and Pals has come from contented customers, her husband or was raised by herself.

It it hadn't been for her shelter, what would have become of the 10,000 animals her shelter placed? What will become of other helpless animals if the shelter is forced to close because of adverse publicity?

Why is Glad being criticized? Is it because she is successfully blocking putting rabies shots on a compulsory, permanent basis, rabies or no?

The latest rumble is about the rabid bat? Is it a bat in fact, or a bat in somebody's belfry?

It's time for people (voters) to stand on their hind feet and support a great humanitarian who is fighting their fight for their animals.

GRACE MCKNIGHT

(Editor's Note: The Pets and Pals Shelter was contacted and quoted in the same issue of The Sun as is referred to by this letter.)

This Mother Has Love In Her Heart for Many

Women in The Sun

By JEAN JERNIGAN

Webster gives 12 definitions of the word "mother," all of them accurate, but one seeking true understanding of the word should meet Mrs. Clinton Nielsen of 1135 Studebaker Road, Walnut Creek.

Combining authority, dignity and tenderness with a natural warmth and love, Mrs. Nielsen has mothered hundreds of little ones, some in her home as foster children, others in the nursery school she operates in Lafayette.

MOTHERING children began for Gertrude Nielsen when the family lived in Los Angeles. "We just had one child of our own at the time," she recalled, "and we became interested in the problems of children at the Welfare Bureau. We both have kind of a knack with children and we were interested in companionship for our child.

"We felt we could meet a need in these children, and at the same time help our own need," she concluded.

The Nielsens for many years took children from Juvenile Court and the Welfare Society in Los Angeles and made a warm, secure home for them. At first they took just one child at a time, but then they were taking three at a time, who with their own child made a happy family of four.

"USUALLY the children we took had problems, some had been on forced feeding, they were so emotionally upset that they couldn't eat. They needed loving care, and I think we were successful in meeting their need as the children seemed to enjoy us and wonderful changes would occur," she said.

Mrs. Nielsen took many University Extension courses during this period of her life, preparing herself for her work with children. Prior to opening her nursery school here, she worked as a volunteer with Dr. Jane Costellanos at Diablo Valley College and attended Mills College on a Nursery School Association scholarship.

Speaking of her husband, she said, "He had no formal training for our earlier work with the children in Los Angeles, but he knew how to give of himself as a father and was wonderful with the children.

"HE GIVES a lot of himself and is very fond of people. I'm not the type who can talk to everyone, I'm apt to be reserved, and he was a wonderful balance and still is. Children need people to talk to, and they could talk so easily to him about their activities and fun things, and come to me with their more serious problems. Together we make a good team."

The Nielsens' Los Angeles life came to an end when he was transferred to this area on business. "It nearly broke our hearts to leave the children," she remembered, "but we were not permitted to take them out of the county."

"WE FIRST lived in a small house in Berkeley where it was not suitable for us to have foster children," she said, "and then our second daughter was born. She was a tiny, frail little child and needed our constant care and it would have been impossible for us to take other children and give them what they needed.

"By the time our little one suddenly bloomed into a healthy little girl she was deeply interested in dancing. She was too little to go to San Francisco for her lessons alone, so I spent most of my time taking her to and fro. When she was 12 and could navigate on her own, Ionce again began my work with children and opened the nursery school here about six year ago."

THE "FRAIL" little child, whose parents loved into good health, is now a star with the San Francisco Ballet and Ballet 1960.

Believing that a happy child makes a happy adult, Mrs. Nielsen and her husband have given years of their time and love toward making their own and other people's children happy.

"We believe in controlled freedom," she explained. "Genuine love, given naturally, is, of course, one of the most important factors in creating a happy child, but a sense of responsibility and fairness is needed too, to hold a family together.

"CONFIDENCE is a real point," she continued. "Say what you believe, say what you mean, and stick to it. Consistency is important, one shouldn't vacillate. The time to start teaching a child to be a happy adult is the day he is born. One can't wait until the child is seven or eight to suddenly begin helping him grow in character," she concluded.

At Nielsen's Nursery School, where Mrs. Nielsen is assisted by several capable teachers, her basic beliefs are put to good use. "A child should not be bored," he remarked, "he needs an interest, something to work on.

"WE BELIEVE in controlled freedom at nursery school, too, but there are two things the children learn from the very beginning, not to bother each other, and not to destroy anything.

"We are licensed to handle 36 children at one time, and operate on four sessions. The time and the hours in school depend on the age of the child, we enroll them from 30 months to five years and nine months," Mrs. Nielsen commented.

"People sometimes wonder at the value of sending a tiny tot off to school, but this depends on the need of the individual child. If a two and a half year old whose mother is expecting a second child is given a new interest, he is not apt to feel pushed out when the next child arrives.

"GIVEN A sence of responsibility and the independence of being away from home for a few hours helps him to make the transition from being the "baby" to being big brother or sister happily," she concluded.

Mrs. Nielsen loves all of her "children" and seldom takes a holiday. The school operates during the summer, too, but in morning sessions only.

A close and happy family, the Nielsens and their daughters and grandchildren frequently get together for family swims and dinners at daughter Nancy's Buckeye Ranch. "With thirteen years between our two daughters the kind of family fun we had when they were small was quite varied," Mrs. Nielsen remembered.

"WITH NANCY we used to go on lots of picnics with relatives, camping trips, baseball games and swims together. With Diana, we seemed to spend a lot of time following her around as she pursued her dancing career. We went to many recitals, ballet and opera performances and that sort of thing," she concluded.

A lady who received her first sewing machine when she was fifteen and made most of her brothers' and sisters' clothes, Mrs. Nielsen still likes to sew. She used to make all of her daughters and foster childrens clothes, and later made many of Diana's costumes.

Adept at cooking, too, she is noted for her particular version of chicken casserole. "It's easy to pick up and take with us if we decide to dine at the ranch together, and it keeps easily for people who straggle in late from work," she laughed.

CLINTON Nielsen works with his daughter Nancy and her husband in operating the Buckeye Ranch, an unusual father-daughter business partnership. On the nights he must stay at the ranch late until the pool closes, Mrs. Nielsen often indulges in one of her favorite pastimes, reading.

She reads novels and mysteries, and is constantly reading books on child guidance and the like. "I just love to read, and really enjoy reading almost anything, she said.

Two pets complete the Nielsen household, "Gus," who is Diana's maltese poodle, and "Mitzi," who belongs to Mr. Nielsen. Even the dogs thrive in the loving atmosphere to be found with the Nielsens.

READING is one of Mrs. Clinton Nielsen's greatest leisure time pleasures. Frequently her choice of reading material is closely associated with her work with children. Here she looks over some of the favorites read at her school in Lafayette.—Sun photo by Pat Hill.

Executive Board Has Luncheon

Mrs. Sherman Camp, newly-elected president of the Women's Club of Walnut Creek, was recently hostess to the executive board at a luncheon at her home on Lusherm Ct. to outline plans for the coming year.

The decor of the luncheon table was in soft summer pastels and placed in the center of the garden patio under a large oak tree giving a very cool and refreshing atmosphere on the warm summer day. Following this interlude, Mrs. Camp called to order the first executive board meeting of the 1960-1961 term.

This year promises to be one of the most outstanding and exciting period in the history of the club because of this being the Golden Anniversary Year. Most plans and affairs will be centered around and lead up to this gala occasion in the spring.

Each officer and chairman offered ideas and suggestions that are to be presented to the membership for their approval at the first regularly scheduled business meeting in September. However, Mrs. Camp will call a special meeting to be held at the clubhouse on Lincoln Avenue in the near future to discuss the club's participation in the Walnut Festival.

Those attending were Mesdames Fred C. Hartley, Barney Gilbert, Arthur Larson, George Fox, E. F. Schimbor, Delmar Brussard, Orin Bosler, Iral G. Hodge, E. Wells Smith, Gladys M. Hawkins, Patricia L. Jerry R. Lincoln Will Wed Iowa Girl Next Month

Jerry Robert Lincoln of Lafayette, formerly of Oakland, will take Miss Shirley Elayne Nielsen as his bride on September third in Cedar Falls, Iowa.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Nielsen of Cedar Falls, graduated from Cedar Falls High School in 1957 and for the past three years has been attending Dana College at Omaha, Nebraska. Next year she will complete the requirements for her California teaching certificate.

The future bridegroom, son of the former Speaker of the California Legislature Luther H. "Abe" Lincoln and Mrs. Helen M. Lincoln, is a 1956 graduate of Fremont High School in Oakland. He has also been attending Dana College for the past three years as a business major.

After their marriage, the couple will make their temporary home in Nebraska while they both complete their senior year. After graduation they will return to California where the groom-elect will enter into business with his father.

League Has Summer Meeting

The League of Women Voters of Concord-Diablo Valley held its summer meeting at the home of Mrs. James Keating of Albo Court, Orinda, recently. Dessert beside the pool was enjoyed while Mrs. Edward Nathan, California League director of publications, addressed the group on the subject of metropolitan problems.

Mrs. Nathan stressed the need of citizens of this area to recognize themselves as members of the nine county bay area, as well as members of their immediate neighborhoods or towns. She pointed out that the metropolitan area is one of the most complex areas in the United States, containing a multiplicity of districts, transportation problems, utility and recreation problems and school problems.

Solution to these problems can be found only through regional planning, she said. The League, Mrs. Nathan said, must assume its share of responsibility in studying our regional problems and informing the public of the scope of these problems and their possible solutions.

Mrs. John D. Lane of Walnut Creek, first vice president and membership chairman, presided at the meeting. The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. R. A. Feichtmeir of Walnut Creek, chairman of the Metropolitan Item. After Mrs. Nathan's address, many members and guests enjoyed the Keating's pool.

Mrs. David Mox of Pleasant Hill and Mrs. J. C. Starkie of Walnut Creek, in charge of the meeting, were assisted by Mesdames A. H. Hammonds of Walnut Creek, Mrs. R. S. Long of Concord, Mrs. Robert Stevens of Pleasant Hill, Mrs. John Stewart of Lafayette, Mrs. Guy Harris of Concord, Mrs. Sam Harris of Walnut Creek, Mrs. D. L. Lanning of Pleasant Hill and Mrs. Frank Davis of Orinda.

ST. STEPHEN'S Episcopal Church in Orinda was the scene of Joan Berkeley Fowkes' wedding to David Ross Pitkin at 4 p.m. on August 6. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Fowkes of 29 El Gavilan, Orinda.

Joan Fowkes Married At St. Stephen's

Escorted to the altar of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Orinda, by her father, Joan Berkeley Fowkes became the bride of David Ross Pitkin at a four o'clock ceremony on August 6.

Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Mayhew Fowkes of 29 El Gavilan, Orinda, the bride wore a short-sleeved, bouffant gown of white eyelet embroidered organdy with an embroidered scalloped neckline and hem on the full waltz length skirt.

Her elbow length net veil with delicate rolled edging was held by a cap of organdy petals tipped with seed pearls. She wore a single strand necklace of small pearls to match. The bridal bouquet was lily of the valley and stephanotis.

Reverend Robert W. Fowkes of Boulder, Colorado, the bride's uncle performed the double ring ceremony. He was assisted by Reverend C. Corwin Calavan, rector of St. Stephen's.

Mary Elisabeth Fowkes was her sister's maid of honor and only attendent. The ten-year-old maid of honor wore a knee length dress of powder blue cotton touched with white eyelet on the collar and the waistband.

She wore a bow of powder blue velvet in her pony tail and carried a nosegay of small white roses.

Stanly Garvin Pitkin, brother of the groom, served as best man. The honorary ushers were the bride's brother, Gordon Fowkes, William Kullman, James B. DeKorne and Jeffrey Smith.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Eleanor Lovell Pitkin and the late Orrin Brown Pitkin of 19 Via Floreado, Orinda.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Fowkes chose a soft powder-blue and white print dress with a draped tulip shaped skirt. She wore white accessories. Mrs. Pitkin chose a gown of lilac chiffon with matching accessories.

After a reception held in the church parish hall, the couple left for a Carmel honeymoon. They will be at home in San Francisco after the honeymoon.

CEDAR FALLS, IOWA will be the scene of the September wedding of Jerry R. Lincoln of Lafayette and Shirley Elayne Nielsen of Cedar Falls. The groom is the son of former speaker of the California Legislature, Luther H. Lincoln and Mrs. Helen Lincoln.

SEVERAL PARTIES have honored James Jacobus of Orinda and Lucille Libbon of Brooklyn, New York, since announcement of their engagement.

Area Men Find Ancient Cannon Smells of Battle

An old muzzle loader cannon which sank with its ship probably 200 years ago off the east coast of Yucatan, still had dry gunpowder in it, several local residents, part of an exploring team, happily discovered.

The rare find was discovered by divers of a Mexican skin diving and exploring organization, also Explorer Scout Pete Noble of Lafayette, Robert Staley of Walnut Creek, and adult John Ferris.

They are members of the American Archaeological Society, as are other local residents who at the time were elsewhere in the area — Keith Pope, Norman Hodgkin of Lafayette and Reginald Barrett of Orinda.

Both Ferris and Pope are Walnut Creek residents and former local newspapermen.

The cannon find was the result of a tip from the Admiral in charge of the Seventh Mexican Naval District, and the cannon was aboard one of several ships scattered about in the clear water, 15 miles north of Isla Mujeres.

The cannon's bore had been kept sealed by the muzzle loader, and the muzzle was corked by a wooden plug.

The first pony express riders left San Francisco, California, and St. Joseph, Missouri, simultaneously on Tuesday, April 3, 1860, reports the California State Automobile Association.

August weather is ideal for planting dwarf citrus—or full size citrus if that's your dish and you have the room. The warm days get these heat lovers off to a good start. County Water Agency Opposes Proposition One

Contra Costa County Water Agency went on record last week as being opposed to Proposition One, the $1.8 billion water bond issue which will appear on the November ballot.

Principal objections to the water bill are those concerned with the bill's lack of assurance of protection for the county's interests in the Delta.

SUPERVISOR Thomas J. Coll suggested the agency oppose only the specific points in the issue which directly affect the county. However, Chairman Mel Nielsen said that if the entire proposition is wrong, the agency should take a stand against the whole issue.

County Administrator Joseph P. McBrien suggested the agency's resolution specifically state as the reason for opposition the lack of adequate protection for the Delta region in the water plan. His suggestion was accepted.

The agency voted after a 20-minute talk by Senator George Miller in which he attacked the principles under which the California Water Plan was organized and the attitude of the state water department and southern interests who have been pushing for this plan and for Proposition 15, the proposed reapportionment of the state senate.

ASSEMBLYMAN Jerome Waldie spoke, following Miller. Waldie stated the agency had originally held off in its decision so as not to upset the chances of getting federal legislation, the Engle Bill, to help the Delta.

He stated that federal help was not coming, and that there is essentially nothing in Proposition One for the county. Agency Consultant William O'Connell stated that there is no plan at present for development of the Delta area.

O'Connell added that he and Attorney Thomas Carlson have had little cooperation from the water department in finding out what exactly the department intends to do with the Delta if the $1.8 billion bond issue is passed in November.

THE WATER Agency asks for a continuation of the winter flows historically available and for a minimum of 4850 second feet in the summer. "The best we can hope for at the moment," continued O'Connell is 1000 second feet. Actually there may be some years during which no water is released into the Delta from the cross Delta canal.

Miller recalled the entire plan was started nine years ago on the insistance of Southern California which sought the best way to get Northern California water south. The engineer's answer was called "The California Water Plan."

deVarona, Schuler, Harrison Make Olympic Team

Lafayette Girl Becomes Youngest U.S. Olympian

Three young residents of the central county area reached new heights in their athletic careers by qualifying for berths on the 37-member U.S. Olympic swim team last weekend in Detroit.

The three—Donna deVarona of Lafayette and Carolyn Schuler and George Harrison of Orinda—will leave with the other champion swimmers and divers tomorrow afternoon for Rome, where they will carry the American standard in the Olympic Games opening August 25.

Miss deVarona, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave deVarona, 3404 Hall Lane, and an eighth grader at Stanley School, is the youngest person ever to qualify for an American Olympic squad.

SHE ACCOMPLISHED this feat by placing fifth in the 400-meter freestyle event to win a spot on the four-member relay team. This means Donna probably will swim one of the 100-meter laps for the United States in the Olympic event.

Donna, a member of the Berkeley YMCA swimming team, is the world record holder in the women's 400-meter individual medley, a non-Olympic event. She set the mark last month at Indianapolis by defeating her arch rival, Sylvia Ruuska of Berkeley, the previous record holder.

Miss Schuler, 17, and a June graduate of Miramonte High School, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles J. Schuler, 93 Van Ripper Lane, Orinda. The Schulers and their son Richard, 22, will travel to Rome next week for the Olympics.

THE ORINDA girl placed second in the finals of the 100-meter butterfly event, making her one of this country's two woman representatives in the event. She swam the distance in 1:09.6, two-tenths of a second behind the winner, Carolyn Wood, 14, of Portland, Ore.

Miss Schuler, who is also a member of the Berkeley swim team, did not compete in any of the pre-Olympic events because she was too occupied with finishing school and graduating with her class.

But her mother said she worked out three times a day between the closing of school in June and the Olympic finals last weekend.

FOR HARRISON, a 21-year-old native of Orinda, this will be the second Olympic trip. He traveled to Melbourne in 1956 while a student at Acalanes High School.

George is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harrison, 7 Camino Lenada, Orinda, and is a senior at Stanford University, where his major is pre-medicine. He swims as a member of the Santa Clara Swim Club.

He placed first in the men's 200-meter freestyle and will swim in the event at Rome.

The only sour note of the week concerning the Olympics came to light Monday when Weikko Ruuska, former Berkeley Y swimming coach and father of Sylvia, accused the U.S. women swimmers of using pep pills.

THE CHARGE was vehemently denied by deVarona and officials of the team. DeVarona claimed that "For the last three years Ruuska has been making the pep pill charge every time one of his daughters lost a race."

The Lafayette man stated that Ruuska's insistence that no one should beat his daughters caused him to lose his position with the Berkeley Y last year.

DeVarona said that at Indianapolis after Donna won the 400-meter medley Mrs. Ruuska grabbed the 100-pound Lafayette girl and shook her. Donna was accused of taking pep pills, deVarona stated, and Mrs. Ruuska threatened to protest the new record.

At Detroit a guard was hired by the deVaronas to keep Ruuska away from Donna, but the Berkeley man managed to contact the young girl by phone, deVarona said.

ONE OF the three central county residents who won spots on the U.S. Olympic swimming team in competition at Detroit last weekend is Carolyn Schuler, 17-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles J. Schuler, 93 Van Ripper Lane, Orinda. Carolyn, who was graduated from Miramonte High School in June, finished second in the 100 meter butterfly with a time of 1:09.6 to qualify for one of the two spots on the team.

Cheering Not Dead in WC Peanut League

The cheering and shouting has not died in the Walnut Creek Peanut League.

Like, the Lions are ahead with none wins and four losses, and the Bears are second with a five and one record, as of last weekend.

More games will determine the final standings.

The Lions beat the Bears last week, 8-1, and Mike Crosno pitched a good game. Both he and Differn got two hits for the Lions, and Taylor got two for the Bears.

The Wildcats beat the Tigers, 4-2, with Matthey the winning pitcher, giving up only two walks. Spitzack got two hits for the Wildcats and Malone two hits for the Tigers.

Wildcat Byers got a home run and knocked two runs in.

Tomorrow, the Wildcats play the Lions at 8:30 a.m. and the Tigers go against the Bears at 10, both at the city park.

The first things that should be planted around the average new home, before or after the lawn is in, are the trees. These are permanent landscape features, and will contribute to the pleasure of your family for as long as you live in the house. To round out the landscaping around a house, the gardener should choose preferred kinds from both the large, shade-tree class and the smaller-statured ornamental flowering kinds.

Central County Golfers Playing in Babe's Event

Both men and women golfers playing at all eight of Contra Costa's golf courses every day this week are trying to beat the scores of nationally-top pros in the second annual Babe Didrikson Memorial Golf Tournament to conclude throughout the state Sunday.

Men players' net handicap scores will be posted against the gross score of Jerry Barber, holder of many pro titles, and women players' scores against the total of Patty Berg, all-time leading money winner of the women's circuit.

THE BARBER - BERG scores Contra Costa golfers are competing against now during the nine-day tournament will be chalked up at an exhibition match Sunday at 12:30 p.m. at Harding Golf Course in San Francisco.

Anyone may enter the tournament, proceeds from which will go to support the work of the American Cancer Society, by paying a $1 entry fee for each score posted, according to Mrs. Herbert Goranson of Lafayette, Contra Costa chairman. The pros' exhibition match Sunday also will have a gallery fee of $1 which will go for cancer research.

Contra Costa clubs participating in the benefit tournament honoring Babe Didrikson Zaharias, America's greatest woman athlete who was a victim of cancer, include Diablo Country Club, Contra Costa Country Club, Orinda Country Club, Antioch Golf Club, Richmond Golf Club, Pittsburg Golf Club, Tilden Park Golf Course and Mira Vista Golf and Country Club.

MEANWHILE, two Orinda men won and one lost in the opening round of the championship flight of the 23rd annual Men's Regional Championship Golf Tournament at Tilden Park last weekend.

Defending champion Wally Marsh defeated William Allen of San Leandro, 6-5, and Don Texdahl won over San Pablo's Don Perkins, 3-2.

Orindan Bill McCord was defeated by Curt Dawson, 1 up.

Two central county residents met in the regional flight of the tourney as Jerry Smith of Orinda posted a 1 up win over Ed Netland of Lafayette.

LADIES AT Diablo Country Club held a medal play guest day last Thursday, and the Contra Costa Country Club had a women's flag tournament.

The low gross score at Diablo was posted by Mrs. Lewis Keller with an 81.

King Football Arrives Here

A new brand of football invaded the area last weekend as the central county's two Pop Warner Football League teams began workouts in anticipation of their seasons' opening next month.

The LaMorinda Thunderbirds, fielding a squad for the first time this season, are working out from 5 to 7 p.m. every day at the Miramonte High School field under the direction of Head Coach Pete Villa.

THE THUNDERBIRDS will represent Lafayette, Moraga and Orinda in the seven-team Pop Warner regional conference.

Villa said he was impressed with the showing of the 50 boys who turned out for the team early this week. He explained that the spirit of the boys is so high that he doesn't feel free to cut anybody from the squad as yet.

As a matter of fact, the Thunderbird coach issued a call for more boys in the 13 to 15 age group who are interested in playing Pop Warner ball.

SOME OF the 50 players who turned out are from the Walnut Creek area, but the great majority is from the three communities fielding the team, Villa said.

He added that no cuts will be made from the roster for at least two weeks unless the boys disqualify themselves for any reason.

The Contra Costa Pioneers, on the other hand, plan their one and only cut of the pre-season period today, and will practice with a squad of only 30 players beginning tomorrow.

HEAD COACH Harry Miller of the Pioneers announced that workouts are held from 7:45 to 9 a.m. each morning at Pleasant Hill Park. He said 100 boys signed up for the two-year-old team and that 80 were practicing early this week.

"Both the veterans and the new boys seem to be picking up our new material," Miller reported.

During the week Miller stressed calisthenics, huddle formations, line formation and hole numbers. In the last three days, the Pioneers have run plays.

While Villa was uncertain as to what type of T-formation the Thunderbirds would use, Miller said the Pioneers will concentrate on three series, the straight-T with spread ends and slot backs, the single wing and the split-T.

Teen Bowl League Is Organized

Under the leadership of newly-elected president Dennis Schmidling, the Walnut Creek Teen Club has formed a teen bowling league.

Six teams are competing at the Walnut Bowl.

Local merchants sponsoring the teen league are the Beauty Trappe, Birdie's Toy House, Herald Cleaners, Nave Electric, Kelloway's Hardware, and Sandra Joy Casuals.

The teenagers' enthusiasm is already shown in the long waiting lists for each team. As soon as enough sponsors can be obtained, a second league will be organized.

Your Garden

Complacency with Lawns Is Wrong for Gardeners

It is not uncommon in California to find gardeners who give up on their lawns during summer. They concede defeat to the long, dry spell and shrug off their troubles with an airy, "Oh well, my lawn's not worth the trouble anyway."

California Association of Nurserymen members have an answer to this attitude which states very simply: "Your lawn may not be a showpiece, but it's the only one you have. Unless you plan to start a new one, you'd better take care of it."

TO THOSE who claim to have tried everything, the C.A.N. replies, "Are you sure." Very few lawns are so far gone that a little care in the right place and at the right time won't green them up. And when you consider that a manicured lawn is often the secret to garden enjoyment, it's well worth a try.

The pressing need of most lawns is water. Take a core from any bedraggled lawn (if you can push a coring tool into it) and you'll likely find the soil bone dry and hard as rock a few inches beneath the surface.

This is a lawn that needs spiking to let food and water get down to do their work. Tough job, you ask? Not with the modern "spiking" equipment your C.A.N. nurseryman can show you.

SO MUCH will plenty of water at the right place (the roots) do for a lawn that you might be lulled to complacency merely by correcting the compaction. Don't be fooled, however, into thinking that feed is unnecessary. Food goes hand in hand with water and will usually improve even the lawn that seems to need no improvement. Once a month is not too often for a hungry lawn.

Water and food are the absolute essentials to a well groomed lawn. There are two other considerations, however, that add frosting to the cake.

If weeds are unsightly, check with your nurseryman about the proper control. And secondly, the more you mow, the better it looks. Keep a close-clipped look to your carpet of green and you can get by with many a ragged edge in other parts of the garden.

Check Unwanted Sights, Sounds With Evergreens

The noise of a busy street or the clutter of a neighbor's yard are unwelcome intrusions on the contentment a gardener seeks from his garden. He deserves better and can get it, if he pays heed to what the California Association of Nurserymen has to say.

According to C.A.N. members, a screen of evergreens is what the doctor ordered for keeping unwanted sights and sounds out of your garden. A living screen can block off an unpleasant view and reduce street noises to a minimum.

AFTER ONCE deciding that a living screen is for him, the gardener need only decide which one it will be. His limiting factor is space, but the choice of material is wide even with space at a minimum.

One of the prime considerations in screening out sights and sounds is the speed with which plant material takes over to do the job. Stay shy of slow growing shrubs and look for those which outstrip their neighbors.

Victorian Box is such a shrub. Young plants will make a full screen six feet high and just as wide in a short two years. We've seen it used in conjunction with a wall or fence where the lower branches are pruned out to put a thick umbrella of foliage on top of the wall.

ANOTHER that grows quickly to a thick barrier to screen out all sights and many sounds is English Laurel. This glossy leaved evergreen pushes up to 10 or 15 feet and fattens up to half that width or more. It can be sheared to make a tall, narrow hedge, but its large, oval leaves are nearly impenetrable if space permits English Laurel to grow unpruned.

Mulching Is Needed for Some Shrubs

In the summertime, there are many shrubs in your garden which depend upon you to give them a mulch to protect them from old sol's rays.

The California Association of Nurserymen explains that a mulch is any loose material used to cover the soil for protection against extremes in weather. It also supplies additional nutrients to the soil; as well as aids in controlling weeds.

HIBISCUS, hydrangea, fuchsia and Princess Flower are but a blooming shrubs which will thank quartet of the many summer you for "air conditioning" their bases with a mulch. It will keep the roots of these shrubs comfortably cool, while the tops bask in the filtered or full sunshine needed to promote best blooms.

Mulching is a must for the acid-loving plants: Azaleas, camellias and rhododendrons. While these shrubs like moisture in the soil, they have shallow roots, and the surface soil from which they feed dries out readily in summer heat.

A feeding of acid fertilizer can be mixed in with the mulch and applied at the same time. Thus, the mulch will help provide two necessary conditions for azaleas, camellias and rhododendrons to give peak performance: An acid soil reaction: and an always-moist top soil.

And don't be stingy in applying the mulch. For example, a layer of from two to three inches of peat moss, manure or bark around the base of shrubs will pay off in more luxuriant plant production. And the gardener benefits, too — since his weeding and watering duties are considerably easier.

Star Jasmine Can Grow High or Low

There are times when even the star jasmine doesn't know whether it wants to be a vine or a shrub. Climbing is its usual habit, but lacking a place to climb it forms a shrubby and highly useful ground cover.

As the California Association of Nurserymen points out, it's strictly up to the gardener how he uses star jasmine. He can train it up and onto a trellis, espalier it like a rangy shrub against a lattice, stake it to a spreading pattern on the ground or even cut it back severely and make it fit for a large tub. Fragrant pinwheel blooms are your reward however you grow it.

Star jasmine is not alone among plants that we class as shrubby vines—or vining shrubs. You can include cape plumbago, that vigorous mass of blue you see so often in the summer gardens of our state. A vine by classification, it is usually seen as a shrubby jumble of flowers and foliage since most gardeners fail to lend it any support. Train it up a pillar or introduce it to a trellis and thin its rampant growth occasionally for a much more pleasing appearance. Cape plumbago is a good shrub as it carries color over much of the year in many California climates.

Another shrubby vine to be used either way is angel wing jasmine —a large flowering white jasmine with deep evergreen foliage. This is a good one for post or pillar that can be kept shrubby with regular heading back or pushed to heights overhead on a lattice framework.

Dramateurs Plan 'Dark at Top of Stairs'

The Dramateurs' new production William Inge's "Dark at the Top of the Stairs" goes before audiences next Friday and Saturday evenings, with a cast including a number of newcomers and youngsters among the old favorites.

It will be presented at the Town Hall in Lafayette for a four weekend run.

A DRAMA of laughter and depth, the story of the hopes and fears of an Oklahoma family, Inge's play ran a long tour on Broadway and played in San Francisco. This is the first release in the East Bay to a little theatre.

The drama, one of perceptiveness, portrays the pathos and laughter of the lives of the family members. The story is a vehicle for incorporating a group of short stories of the minor dramas that touch each of their lives.

The play presents a number of young people and is unusual in this respect. There is dual casting of several of these roles to give opportunity to more young people and to encourage the increasing outlets for young people in dramatics in the central county along with the recently introduced Dramateur School for Young People.

MARILYN MACKEY, in one of the adult leads, as Cora, comes from University of California, Ohio State University and State Teachers College theater experience. This will be her first role with the Dramateurs.

John Anton, who played a lead in Anniversary Waltz, will play Ruben. Betty Reynolds, new president of the group, and veteran of "Anniversary Waltz," "Voice of the Turtle," and "High Ground" plays Lottie. George Meyer, recently in the "Barretts of Wimpole Street" and "Picnic" portrays Morris.

The young people include:

TONY CONE aind David Corona, 12 years old, are cast as Sonny. Tony is a new member of the group. David goes to Pine Grove School, Orinda and has been attending the Dramateurs School of Dramatics.

Roger Falk and Lanny Hertzberg play Punky. Both boys are active in high school and community theater work and attend the Dramateurs School. Joan Campbell, a senior at Acalanes, portrays Reenie, has played in plays and operettas. Dave Daniels, 17 years old, has had two years of drama in high school in "The Boy Friend" and "Finians Rainbow."

Kathi Brown, in her first role, plays Flirt, is a student at the University of California at Riverside, has prepared a model set of the show and has worked on set design in other productions.

ALL THIS FOR A PENNY?

Used to be, a fellow could buy all sorts of things for a penny. Toys. Candy. Apples. Then came inflation, and prices went sky-high.

In fact, your penny now buys 50% less than it did 30 years ago. With one notable exception. EBMUD water. You're getting 20% more water for your penny now than you did in 1930.

Example? Well, how about a glass of water every day for a year? It's yours for a penny . . . at the lowest water rates in the Bay Area.

Your Ride Will Be Smoother on these Newly Resurfaced Roads

Eighty miles of Contra Costa County roads are being seal-coated this year.

The work began in June and will be completed by the middle of August.

The County Public Works crews are on the job in Lafayette and Orinda now.

They will start in Walnut Creek, Pleasant Hill and Martinez areas next Thursday.

THEY HAVE already completed Danville.

The seal coat consists of two successive applications of asphaltic emulsion, each sovered with a layer of stone chips.

The specially equipped crew is able to complete one and one-half to two miles of street per day.

To obtain a first class job it is necessary that the street be dry and unobstructed. To insure this the department distributes a notice a day or so in advance of the operation which requests that the residents cooperate by parking off the street and by preventing garden water from flowing into the street.

THERE ARE the roads which will be seal-coated in the Walnut Creek, Pleasant Hill, and Martinez areas:

Kahrs Avenue from Boyd Road to Gregory Lane; Helen Road from Gregory Lane, to Gladys Drive; Rose Lane from Gladys Drive to Maureen Lane; Helen Road from Maureen Lane to Lucille Lane; Nancy Lane (west to east) from Elinora Drive to end; Betty Lane (each to west) from Elinora Drive to end; Blum Road from State Highway to end; Austin Way from Blum Road to end.

Howard Greenhalgh, your Telephone Manager in Orinda

"A charming Princess," Suzanne Levsen of Lafayette, says, "There's exciting news this month." We're introducing a handsome new telephone called "The Princess." Hardly bigger than your hand, the Princess takes only half the usual space. When you lift the receiver, the dial lights up. Or at the flick of a switch, the dial glows as a soft night light so you can find the phone easily in the dark. The Princess comes in attractive colors that are perfect for any room in your home—white, beige, pink, blue and turquoise. You can see and try it out at our business office, and you can order it there or through your telephone service man.

California State Fair time is just around the corner again—Aug. 31 to Sept. 11. If you're planning to go, we hope you'll visit the Pacific Telephone exhibit there. From what I've heard, it's going to top our show last year—and that one won the Fair sweepstakes award for the most outstanding exhibit. You'll see some really interesting ways communications serve you and the nation. (The Kids will get a big kick out of hearing their own voices over a special phone.) So all the telephone people here hope you'll visit Pacific Telephone at the State Fair in Sacramento and see how we're working to serve you and your family.*

New home builders are finding it's a good idea to start planning for telephones right from the blueprint stage.

That way, they can have built-in wiring all ready for the phones they want now—and the ones they'll add later. We'll be glad to help you or your builder with telephone planning for your new home, or for extension phones in your present one. Just give the business office a call: there's no obligation, of course.
